Telematics Innovation & Vehicle Safety Forum

23-24 August 2018

EMPERORS PALACE CONVENTION CENTRE, JOHANNESBURG

Background to Forum

Commercial motor vehicles and telematics are now inseparable. What began with engine data monitoring, GPS navigation and location tracking has been steadily augmented with new capabilities, for geofencing, fuel monitoring, mobile phone and tablet interfaces, satellite communication and more.

As an industry in itself, Telematics is growing fast, and over the past two years, Vukani Communications have been hosting eye-opening talks by various local experts on how connected cars, smart cities, fleet and fuel management technologies have taken shape in the local transport industry and how they have helped secure vehicles, optimise routes and changed the way insurance companies conduct their operations.

Well; innovation in telematics keeps growing. We are looking at a future where cars drive themselves; will there be an end to telematics innovation? There have also been talks on whether government and municipal authorities can leverage telematics data to improve road infrastructure (for instance; if a car reports a pothole on the road back to its base station, how possible is it that the technology company can report the problem to the responsible authority and have it swiftly attended to?). Consumers also want to know what benefits they can get out of telematics.

The above and more are the thrust for the 2018 edition of the Telematics Innovation and Vehicle Safety Forum, which has been scheduled for the 23rd and 24th of August 2018, at the Emperors Palace Convention centre in Johannesburg. At Vukani, we believe everybody can benefit from telematics, and that the widespread implementation of the technology will result in integrated intelligent transport systems in which hijackers stand no chance, and connected vehicle technologies will help improve road user experience and reduce accidents
